

UAE energy storage battery export policy

Overview

What is the UAE Energy Strategy 2050?

Aim of the UAE Energy Strategy 2050 The updated strategy aims to promote the deployment of renewable and nuclear energies, enhance energy efficiency, drive R&D and innovation in energy technologies, increase local clean energy capacity, and encourage investments in the country's renewable and clean energy sector.

Who regulates electricity in the UAE?

The Federal Ministry of Energy and Infrastructure regulates the sector at a federal level. Electricity services are expressly reserved to the Federal Government in accordance with article 120 of the UAE Constitution.

Are battery energy storage systems a viable solution?

Battery energy storage systems (BESS) are one viable solution. An advanced technological solution, they function by storing renewable energy which can then be used when power is required. They help address the challenge of intermittent renewable energy, and provide clean power 24 hours a day, no matter the weather conditions.

Is UAE a sustainable country?

For the UAE, renewable energy is a core pillar of its sustainability plans. Masdar, the UAE's clean energy powerhouse, is among the organizations supporting the country's efforts, both home and abroad. For instance, Masdar has committed to invest £1 billion (AED4.68 billion) in UK battery storage.

How is electricity sold in Abu Dhabi?

In accordance with the Abu Dhabi IPP Law, all utility-scale renewable power generation capacity is purchased by the EWEK under a long-term power purchase agreement (except where the Side Sales System applies). The electricity is sold to ADDC and AADC via an annually adjusted bulk supply tariff for onward sale to consumers.

Who is responsible for regulating energy activities in Abu Dhabi?

Under article 9 of the DOE Law, an establishment or individual is prohibited from engaging in any activity in the energy sector in Abu Dhabi without obtaining the required licence from Abu Dhabi DOE. Under the RSB Resolution and the Dubai IPP Law, Dubai RSB is responsible for licensing Regulated Activities.
